“I think it's important that your congressman not just be some guy behind a desk who gives speeches or waves at community events. Your congressman needs to be someone you know, someone who shares your hopes, dreams and fears – a real person that you can talk to about our community,” said Meek. “I've met so many people through the years through my various non-profit endeavors and heard many great ideas. As a candidate, I think it's critical for anyone who wants to, to be able to share their ideas with me and learn about mine.”
